

Bobby Zoppi has been a lead singer/songwriter for many years. He has had 3 major recording contracts in the music business starting with Qwest/Warner Brothers Records in the 90's, Warner/Chappel publishing and MCA/Universal records in 2000. He was nationally recognized by Billboard magazine for his voice and MCA debut record. Bobby had a single that was on the radio in various markets around the country and has continued to hone his voice. Bobby's current project "The Corduroys" is rooted in Bobby's early roots in country music. He grew up listening to the likes of George Jones, Randy Travis, George Strait but has also been influenced by Tim McGraw, Rascal Flatts and is currently a big fan of Florida Georgia Line, Kenny Chesney, Luke Bryan amongst others. The Corduroys perform many of the old school hits as well as current country/rock on the radio and a few originals.
